

interior designer

BRITAIN'S OLDEST MAGAZINE FOR PROFESSIONAL INTERIOR DESIGNERS £3.95 JULY 2018

News

NEWS BRIEFING

O&A LONDON LAUNCHES

A new brand, O&A London, is the culmination of the minds and experience of leading design team of Oleg Klotz and Anna Agapova. The one-off pieces of the collection match almost any interior as the collection itself is based on an architectural concept. Oleg Klotz, commented, 'I really believe that in years to come, collectors will be hunting for our furniture, and designers will be copying it. That means my task is to create something for all time.'

MILAN MOOD

Alya opened its Milan boutique at Via Ponte Vecchio 6 in the historic Brera district recently. Studloppa, an interior design and creative consultancy, interpreted the soul of the brand in the store's interior, creating a sophisticated and contemporary atmosphere with a palette of textures and natural fibres, which enhance the reading of the collection without overwhelming it. A modern, feminine aesthetic creates a common thread connecting clothing and settings.

ROOFTOP BARS COMPLETES HOTEL VISION

Dezire Moran Associates has designed the Jin So Law skybar atop the Dorsett City London hotel, Aldgate. Having won planning permission for the stunning 14th floor roof extension in 2017, Dezire Moran Associates (DMA) was delighted to see the Jin So Law skybar complete Dorsett Hospitality International's £35 million, new build four star hotel.

BO'S BUILDING REFURB

Resonate Interiors has transformed the interiors for the classic BO's Northern and Shell building for Halcrow Group. Resonate were required to create a space that would appeal to many types of small to medium occupiers, to service their needs and provide a supportive environment to build their companies.

STRICT DRESS CODE

HÔTEL DRESS CODE, PARIS, HAS BEEN DESIGNED BY STEPHANIE COUTAS, A GLAMOUROUS GETAWAY

The new Hôtel Dress Code's elegant interiors, designed by Stephanie Coutas, provides a glamorous gateway into the world renowned Parisian fashion scene. Located in the former French prêt-à-porter headquarters between the Grands Magasins, St Honoré and Opéra, the four star hotel blends beautifully with its surroundings through its reverence for fashion and classic Parisian design. Showing a strong affinity for French haute couture, each room's style is infused with a balance of tranquility and boldness. Through her elegant, yet functional approach to style, Stephanie Coutas' impeccable eye for detail creates a modern and relaxed, yet chic interior. Coutas' homage to signature French couture provides each of the Hôtel Dress Code's 33 rooms with effortless charm and elegance. With rooms featuring an array of thematic designs, such as 60s pastel tones, pearl grey and dusty hues reminiscent of Avenue Montaigne, and houndstooth checked patterns similar to a timeless classic suit, Stephanie's diverse range of interiors appeals to any sophisticated cosmopolitan traveller. At the Hôtel Dress Code, each room features a striking metal ring that is lined with hangers, a perfect feature to display the guest's holiday wardrobe. Where luxury unfolds beautifully with la joie de vivre, each room is designed to be a statement piece whose soft lining and sharp fit is tailored perfectly to the person wearing it. The well-balanced lighting carefully selected by Stephanie Coutas creates a soothing and molten atmosphere whilst the hand-selected interior fabrics were chosen for their irresistible comfort and softness.

THE FIVE SEASONS

Exploring the world of fragrances through the lens of design is an idea that has fascinated Alessi since the mid-1980s. The Five Seasons, designed by Marco Wanders, is a new chapter in Alessi's history and celebrates design as a multi-sensory experience. Marco Wanders said, 'The new collection of home fragrances invites us to discover the immensity of nature and to embrace its spirit in our home. The intensity and vitality of the scents hang in the air day and night, immersing us in an experience of continual transformation.'

